Response of the Faculty Welfare Committee to Proposed Revision of Davis Division Regulation 547

The current regulations for determining the appropriate dates when students can add, drop or withdraw from courses are unnecessarily complex and confusing. Valuable staff and student time is wasted every quarter trying to navigate the existing system for scheduling these important deadlines. Faculty Welfare strongly supports the proposed revision of Davis Division Regulation 547 to simplify how these dates are determined.

RFC: PROPOSED REVISION OF DAVIS DIVISION REGULATION 547

The Graduate Council charged the APD chair with the review of the aforementioned RFC on the Proposed Revision of Davis Division Regulation 547.

No concerns arose regarding the proposal. The proposed revision aims at defining deadlines for petitions for late Add/Drop in a consistent and easy to determine manner, moving them up from the day before the final exam to the last day of instruction, which is likely to reduce potential confusion.

At its April 5, meeting the Council voted to approve APD's recommendations.

Accordingly, Graduate Council submits for your consideration the above-mentioned recommendation(s).

Sincerely,

Rachael E. Goodhue, Chair
Graduate Council
