2nd Review - Interdepartmental Program in Human Rights Studies

June 18, 2014

Following a response earlier this year, the proposal to establish an Interdepartmental Program in Human Rights Studies has been revised. Undergraduate Council has agreed to review the proposal. If questions arise requiring additional information from proposers, the review will continue into fall quarter 2014.

CPB reviewed the revised proposal for an Interdepartmental Program in Human Rights (2nd review). Most of CPB's previous concerns have been addressed in the revised proposal. Overall, the committee supports establishment of the program. However, CPB still recommends including faculty from the Law School as part of the program since the focus is human rights.
