

Policy Regulating Programmatic Changes for Programs Undergoing Review

Proposed changes to undergraduate program degree requirements must be submitted to Undergraduate Council for approval prior to implementation.

Undergraduate Council approved the following policy on March 20, 2015 that relates to the period when an undergraduate program is being reviewed. While a program is in the “review phase,” Undergraduate Council will not consider for review any changes to programs. The “review phase” covers the period from the date that the program is notified of pending review, in the spring quarter prior to the review, until Undergraduate Council has put forward its recommendations. After the “review phase,” degree requirements may be submitted for review and will then be considered for approval. As always, department chairs are encouraged to consult Undergraduate Council with any questions.